GOOD BILL GONE TO CONFERENCE atched bill has gone to conference. There was a strong slow of it to submitting it to conference, but now it is out of the time being and it remains whether the House in the will have the temerity to defy the and the obvious wishes of the of Arizona and probably the ity in New Mexico.

far East, seems to be dying Reports have reached the State ment that the anti-foreign feel-dying down and that the boycott to fall by its own weight. The department has withdrawn the ships that it had sent to North waters and the bulk of the men feet is now at Shanghai and ward. The agents of the State ment are alert and not apt to be light sleeping, for though the outlook present is promising, a calm in China presently precludes the bursting of the storm.

his government is making more than ever to push American abroad and the latest move has a bill introduced by Senator Over-to create a presidential commis-to study the needs of the cotton in the far East. This plan has presented to the secretary of commerce and labor who approved it but suggested that as the ment already had the organizacompleted for such work it was to go to the expense of equip-a special commission. Consesome cotton experts may be to study market conditions, and have been arrangements made to all of the great mill-tries, samples of the clothes and most in demand in the Eastern markets. These exhibits are already being prepared by the department and to be sent out to the mill-country as rapidly as possible.

Senator Tillman says the debate on the bill will last six weeks more but the Hepburn bill will be mattered before it passes the Senate. Senator Belliver says that the bill will be passed without amendment of the debate will not last more than ten days longer. Anyone interested can draw their own conclusions from these diverse views.

The rate the debate is now prepared for and from the number of senators who still want to speak, it looks as if Senator Tillman's forecast will be more nearly correct. It is impossible to tell what may be the rate bill and the friends of the bill are trying hard to put it into the hands of it that will render the bill a law of no effect.

It can be said that if the bill goes to the White House in such shape as it is in now, with the president's approval, it will be as sure as he can get it passed and will call an extra session to thrash out the whole matter of it. But it is hardly to be supposed that even the enemies of fair legislation will go to such lengths and there is always in the background the fear of Senator Tillman shortly put it when he said that if the present congress could not turn out a fair rate legislation bill, the people would see to it that the next congress was composed of men who were differently minded.

Everything has been provisionally arranged for Secretary Root's trip to Rio Janeiro in July. Normally he is to be present at the Pan American conference. But in reality it is understood that he will be charged with a mission to the Brazilian government for the establishing of what amounts to an international alliance with respect to the Monroe doctrine. This was the matter on which Judge Penfield was sent to Brazil last summer. He looked over the ground and declared that conditions were ripe for such a move. He was an official in whose judgment the president reposed great confidence, and his report was that only would Brazil welcome such an agreement but that European politics were so moving as to make it most desirable. One thing is certain, that if such an arrangement is to be made, the secretary of state is the man to do it and another thing is equally certain, that while there were so many things requiring his attention at home, he would not be going to South America and making a trip possibly around to the west coast merely for the purpose of extending the courtesy of his presence to the Pan American conference.

Accidentally Killed.

As we go to press, news is received that County Superintendent Cunningham, of Indiz, was killed Wednesday by accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a negro servant.

TRY TO COMPLETE ROAD IN NEXT FOUR MONTHS

The First Cars and First Load of Iron for Kentucky Midland Reach Central City.

Madisonville, Ky., Mar. 24. The work of grading for the Kentucky Midland is now under way and a large force of men are at work on the heavy grade that occurs about five miles this side of Central City.

It was stated Tuesday evening by one of the stockholders of the road that the mines along the right of way would be open and cars running over the line within four months. Coal and mineral rights amounting to $10,000 have already been secured by the company and it is probable that more land will be bought up before the completion of the road.

Head Engineer Wheeler and two of the assistant engineers were here Monday. They went from here to the point where the grading is under way.
The engineers spent the greater part of the day Tuesday inspecting the work, returning here Tuesday afternoon.

A few of the cars for the new road have been purchased and are now at Central City. The first car load of iron has also reached Central City.

BILL FOR BENEFIT OF CALER POWERS

It Will Die in Committee or Will Be Thrashed Out on Floor of House Says Ollie M. James.

Washington, March 24. An effort will be made to secure an act of congress amending the Federal statutes, "Sections 641 and 642" in such a way as to take Caleb Powers' case out of the State courts and transfer it to the Federal courts. Representative Hughes, of West Virginia, will introduce the bill within a few days. The bill will seek to empower the United States circuit court to remove any case from the State to the Federal court upon being satisfied that the defendant cannot obtain justice in the State court.

John W. Langley, of Prestonsburg, Ky., distributing officer of the commission, is preparing the bill. It is based on Justice Harlan's opinion in the Powers' case.

Representative Hughes, who was agreed to be its sponsor, formerly lived in Kentucky, and was a member of the Kentucky legislature. John W.
Langley is well known in Kentucky, having made a race for congress against Representative Hopkins.

The Democratic congressmen from Kentucky desire the movement to secure legislation permitting the removal of cases from the State to the Federal courts.

"The practical effect of such a law," said Ollie James, "would be to abolish the State courts and destroy State's rights. Of course, the bill will die in the committee to which it will be referred. It has no more chance to pass than I would have to carry the United States capitol down to my district."

If the bill should be reported out of committee the Powers' case would be thrashed out on the floor of the House.

DISCUSSION BY F. JULIUS FOHS

In The Engineering and Mining Journal.

SETTING FORTH NEW IDEA

On Classification of Faults and Fractures Into Series and Sets and Its Practical Application.

MAY PROVE OF GREAT LOCAL VALUE.

The difficulty of classifying the faults and fractures of a section so that such classification shall be of practical value, has long been felt in every mining field where complex faulting has entered into the question of the location of ore deposits, and, as such regions are the most common loci for ore and mineral deposits, the question is of prime importance. Usually the best that can be done is to classify the faults and fractures, as having a northeast or northwest strike. Miners have locally given arbitrary names to the more usual strikes, such as used in the Erzgebirge of the Harz and other German mining regions, but outside of implying the direction of faults or fractures already found, they serve no practical purpose.

In the study of the veins and faults of Western Kentucky, I became convinced as early as 1902, that rather definite relationships exist between the strikes of faults or fractures, and their crosses. For instance, it was noted in widely separated sections of the district that fractures bearing N. 35 deg. to 40 deg. E. would have crosses bearing N. 20 deg. to 25 deg. W. Again, those bearing N. 25 deg. to 25 deg. E. would have crosses of N. 35 deg. to 40 deg. W. etc. Still others were found in such regions as variant angles to these formed by those given, as for example in the Columbia Mines section, in Crittenden county, where the last mentioned bearings obtain, fractures bearing N. 10 deg. to 15 deg. E. were noted. Such being the case, use was made of the relationships noted by me in various sections of the field without any attempt at their reduction to a common relationship.

Shortly afterward, I saw Hold's work on the faults of the Pomperaug Valley, Connecticut. Hold had noted somewhat similar relationships. He attempted to explain the formation of the courses of a set, by constructing parallelograms having 150 and 300 feet, respectively, for sides, and by using a number of these in different combinations, to arrive at the different courses.

It was not until very recently that I conceived the idea of a common relationship between members of a set of fractures, having accidentally arrived at it in working up the data in hand relative to the structure of Western Kentucky, for presentation in the reports. It was noted in the field work, that, almost constantly close approaches to 60 and 90 deg. for angles formed between joints and their crosses, obtained, both in sandstones and limestones, this gave the clue. Burke obtained the angles of 60 deg. and 121 deg. for joints in a great many instances in the same field. Upon tabulating in three sets, the northwesterly courses about 30 deg. and 120 deg. and 121 deg. and 30 deg., and adding respectively 60 and 120 deg., the members grouped under the three remaining series, north-easterly, east-northeast and west-northwest, were obtained for each set and these found to agree remarkably with the strikes of crosses observed in the field.

Upon measurement of the angles formed by the fissures shown upon the map of the Freiberg district, similar angles were closely approached.
In great many instances, both for fissures of the same type and for those for other types where they crossed each other. Angles closely approaching 60 deg. and 90 deg. formed by three sets of fractures were found in the plate of a specimen of Jasper from Minnesota, shown by both to exhibit fracture cleavage. The latter is typified by regions where normal faulting has produced fault block structures.

With these data at hand, the following rule was deduced, this to be applicable to enokinetic tension fractures, especially where tension is dominant as the result of flexure, and possibly to all types of tension fissures: Upon adding 30 deg. to or subtracting it from; northeast courses (necessitating as they may be north-northeast or east-northeast) will give the corresponding northwest course; for the northwest courses, add and subtract 60 deg. from the north-northeast course, or, having the north-northwest course given, add 60, 90 and 120 deg., and obtain the other three; while if the west northwest be given, the north north-west may be obtained by subtracting 60 deg.

Such bearings may be readily obtained instrumentally, by constructing an equilateral triangle, using either the north-north-west, the north northeast, or the west north-west, as a basal side; the remaining two sides will then give the bearing of the other two, while a perpendicular dropped on the north-northwest side will give the east-northeast bearing.

Often only two members of a set are obtained though usually a third is present, and less often a fourth. In the Kentucky Illinois district, a north-northeast and a north-northwest, with usually one of the other two are to be found, depending somewhat on what part of the field one is in. The predominance is to be explained upon the basis of previous strains producing lines of least resistance. In the Kentucky-Illinois district such lines are offered by the crossing of two monoclinal folds, forming a fan-like fold, previous to the publication of the forces resulting in fissures and faultings.

Variations from the angles named are to be expected, the amount of variation being dependent largely on the extent of homogeneity of the rock, the variation increasing as the extent of homogeneity decreases. A maximum variation of ten deg. might obtain, though in most instances it will be less than five degrees. In any one section of a district, one or more sets may prevail and the presence of more than one set may be assumed when two fractures are found with courses forming an angle largely variant from the constants given.

The most probable explanation that presents itself, as to why the directions assumed by fractures should bear constant relations to each other, so as to permit their grouping into sets, may be stated thus: Consider a fault zone as a beam, in which a tension stress has been induced at an acute angle to the axis of the beam. Where tension is set up, shearing results, at an acute angle to the direction in which the force is applied. Theoretically, the angle of maximum shear made at right angles with the applied stress, is 45 deg. for both compression and tension.
Practically it appears to be less for compression and greater for tension.
Hodgekisson obtained 35 deg. as an average for compression of twenty-one east-iron cylinders; while Breckinridge obtained 45 deg. with the axis of tension for tensile stresses in steel. Allowing 5 deg. in the latter instance for variation of character and homogeneity of material acted upon, we have a close correspondence with the angle secured in the field.

Modifying somewhat the statement presented by Hodgekisson, as to the production of fissility by compressive stress, we have the following:

Where rocks are subjected in volume to the forces of compression or tension, in case of the former the angles formed by shears, would be at an average angle of 45 deg. or 35 deg., such average still to be determined; while where tension is the dominant stress, an approach to angles of 60 deg. may be anticipated. In such a case, two sets of planes of rupture may develop, cutting each other at an oblique angle, the greatest pressure bisecting the acute angle, for compressive stresses, and cutting each other at an acute angle, the greatest stress bisecting the oblique angle, for tensile stresses. The latter corresponds with the two right angles formed between the first and and third and the second and fourth members of a set, the angles cutting each other at the acute angle of 30 deg. While such rupture will probably not occur in regular manner throughout large volumes, considerable regularity holds for limited volumes, producing approximate parallelism of fault planes.

Such strike sets become equally applicable to the joints, larger fractures and faults, and fracture and faults zones, the variation becoming somewhat greater as applied to increased volumes. While the course pursued by fault zones, where en echelon fractures obtain, is at an acute angle with the course of the major fractures along it, crossing fault-zones maintain somewhat similar relations, the angle being swung in the same direction. With

ONE DAY SPENT IN WASHINGTON

Its Hidden Back Alleys Are Explored

THE DEATH RATE IS HIGH

There Are No Laws Against Child Labor and Much Else That Is Slow, Backward and Wrong

AND BAD CONDITIONS AS TO HOUSING

The following is reported by Jacob A. Rills, author of "How the Other Half Lived" and "The Making of an American," etc.:

Two winters ago I spent a day turning Washington inside out. That is to say, I explored its slums in company with Mr. McFarland, Mr. Weller and others who knew. I am not unused to that sort of thing, and I am not easily discouraged, because I have lived to see the light break in many a place where all was darkness before. But I own that I came back, let us say, exasperated, from that trip. For I had always liked Washington. To me, as to every one who comes there to enjoy a holiday, it had been a beautiful city, and I had taken a citizen's pride in it.
I do so yet, but not in the same way.
For I had learned that my fair, lovely apple had a rotten spot at the core.

I mean exactly that, for I have in mind the hidden back alleys we saw, so well hidden that I had passed them by day after day, pleased with the fine front the block was making and without the least suspicion of what it was harbored within. It is not a pleasing story, because a share of the blame belongs to the reader. Washington is our national city, and whether we make of it a cause for national pride or national shame, we are doing it. Washington is not to blame. It has no voice in the matter. Congress alone has. So, if the reader is humiliated, as I was, by the showing that nowhere is there a death rate to be found like that of the colored babies in the back alleys of the national capital, we shall have in that, perhaps, a working basis for better things, since whatever of public opinion is needed to work a change must come from the outside.
How urgent the need of its coming—that I saw many proofs. The one I mentioned ought to be enough. But there was a straw that floated with the current that day which I feel like sending along to keep it company. They had opened two playgrounds, the summer before, one for white and one for colored children. And this was the record, I was told, the colored people paid for their own, the white did not.
They had to be helped.

It is not hard to understand, then, why the tuberculosis death runs high, or why Judge Lindsey finds the capital making a bad showing in the matter of the children, why compulsory education is not yet a fact in the district of Columbia; why they have no laws against child labor, and much else that is wrong.

Commissioner Macfarland tells us that the unfavorable conditions as to housing are limited to a comparatively small area and easy to deal with. And so it is with all the rest. It is as easy to wipe out a foul alley as to make a beautiful "chic" one. If it does not excite as much admiration, it may head off sorrow and misery that would more than outweigh that. For the patience that goes forth from the neglected alley goes far, and neither wealth nor authority has power to stay it.

These are not good words to be spoken of our national capital, but they are as true of Washington as they are of New York and Chicago. Shall we not heed their warning while it is time? Washington may so easily be made the model city of the land. Shall we let the slum grow instead, to make it a reproach to American citizenship for all time to come?

the course of the fault zone known, allowance may be made for this difference of angle, and the course of the constituent fractures may be determined.

The number of sets of bearings found in a district will depend upon the number of directions from which a force has been exerted. A number of complex conditions may enter in fixing the general trend of each series in different districts.

Where evidence of a fracture or fault exists, with the direction interminable, this may be approximately obtained, thus: Determine the bearings of joints of rock outcrops in the vicinity. The member having a strike most nearly coincident with that of the major fractures of that section will most probably approach that of the fracture, whose strike is to be determined; or where conditions suggest a different strike, it will approach that of the one of the three corresponding members, of a set (constructed as indicated above) which comes nearest filling the given conditions.

It has been the practice heretofore to cross-cut at right angles in both directions from the strike of a fracture or fault so as to cut parallels or semiparallels. Where cross fractures also enter the problem, this is inadequate.
With the constant relations between the cross-fractures known, it resolves itself into a simple matter to determine the direction necessary for the smallest amount of cross-cutting to locate all possible fractures. For exokinetic tension fissures, cross-cutting in four directions at an acute angle of 30 deg. with the strike of the fracture would fill these conditions.

BECKHAM SOON WILL ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY

Declaration Made by a Close Friend and Means Complete Control by the Machine.

Frankfort, Ky., March 24. Governor Beckham will shortly announce his candidacy for United States Senator.
This declaration has been made by one of the closest friends of the governor.
No formal announcement is expected, but he proposes to let his friends know he is in the race.

Senator McCreary will no doubt be a candidate for re-election, as he has held the office for only one term.

If Governor Beckham should defeat Senator McCreary the administration will be in complete control of state politics, as it increased its grip when it defeated Blackburn, and the defeat of McCreary would remove every obstacle to supreme control. Of course, the contest is going to bring together those who are opposed to machine politics in a supreme effort to defeat the ring that has fastened its tentacles upon the state and seem determined to rule it, to the ruin of the Democratic party.

CONTROL OF INSURANCE BY THE GOVERNMENT

Receives a Black Eye in the House of Report and Is Not Subject to Regulation.

Washington, March 4. That there is no constitutional authority for federal control of insurance or other state corporations other than railroads, is to be the conclusion reported to the House by the judiciary committee. The report has been drafted by Chairman Jenkins of the committee, and is now in the hands of members of the committee for their perusal.

An unofficial poll of the members of the committee indicates that with practically no exceptions they concur in the correctness of this conclusion. The report of Mr. Jenkins may, therefore, be taken as the basis of the answer the committee is to make to the house in compliance with the instruction of that body.

The report collates all of the important court decisions on the questions involved, threats each exhaustively and reduces the whole problem to these two principles:

"The supreme court of the United States has declared, and has never been shaken or weakened in maintaining from the first, that insurance is not commerce, and second, that congress cannot impair the police powers of the states."

HYOMEI IS NOT A PATENT MEDICINE
A Scientific Treatment for Catarrh by Breathing Air Through the Pocket Inhaler.
Breathed through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, Hyomei destroys all catarrhal germs in the air passages of the throat and nose, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and effectually drives from the system all traces of that catarrhal poison.
No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised as catarrh cures. It is as superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass.
The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei costs but $1, and an extra bottle can be obtained for 50 cents, making it the most economical method of curing catarrh, as well as the most reliable.
Haynes & Taylor have sold a great many outfits and have seen such remarkable results from its use, that they sell it under an absolute guarantee that it costs nothing, unless it cures.
Dragged by a Mule.
Herbert Carter sustained some very painful injuries Wednesday morning which occurred on his farm near Levisa.
The mule which he was riding fell with him and he was dragged quite a long distance, badly bruising him and seriously injuring him.
A physician was called in and dressed the wounds and reports that Mr. Carter is getting along nicely and will be able to be out again soon.
For Sale.

A GREAT OFFER

On account of moving into new and larger quarters the

Owensboro Business University

WILL MAKE THE FOLLOWING GREAT REDUCTION IN RATES ON JUST FIFTY SCHOLARSHIPS:

OUR regular rates for a single scholarship in either department is $45. Combined course of Bookkeeping and Shorthand, $80.00.

In this effort to reach a great spring enrollment, we will make the great sacrifice of $15 on the single course or $25 on the combined course.

This makes the course in Bookkeeping or Shorthand $30. The combined course $55. This is certainly the greatest offer ever made by any school at any time.

Further, any one securing the sale of only five of these cash scholarships will receive a free scholarship in either department.

These scholarships will be good at any time you wish to enter, but will call your attention to the fact that only fifty will be sold at this price.

This means immediate action on your part.

If further information is wanted, write us at once as these will be placed on sale the 10th of this month.

CHEAPER FARM LANDS

Southwest Offers Best Opportunities For Securing Homes.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are selling their high priced lands and locating in the Southwest. Many who have been unable to own their homes in the older country are buying land in the new country.

Unusual opportunities exist along the line of the Missouri Pacific Iron Mountain Route. The rich alluvial delta lands and river bottom lands of Southeast Missouri, Eastern Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, capable of producing 60 bushels of corn, a bale of cotton, 4 to 6 tons of alfalfa, 150 bushels of potatoes, and other grains, vegetables and fruit crops, can be bought for $7.50 to $15.00 per acre. When cleared and slightly improved will rent for $1.00 to $2.00 per acre cash.

Land is more rolling, lighter soil, adapted to fruit growing, peaches, pears, plums, grapes, berries, also melons, tomatoes and other vegetables, can be bought for $5 to $10 per acre in unimproved state. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap.

This is a fine stock country. No long winter feeding. Free range, pure water, mild climate. A healthy growing country, with a great future.

Write for map and descriptive literature to Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Kansas and Indian Territory. Very cheap rates on first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Protect Proprietary Medicines.

Do it ever occur to you that proprietary medicines are a blessing to mankind generally? The good ones have long continued sale, the poor ones have short life and soon leave the market.

If we had to depend entirely upon physicians and druggists it would be expensive and very inconvenient at times, especially in the country and at night when neither could be conveniently reached. For nearly forty years, Roscoe's German Syrup has been used in many families, and thousands of lives of adults and children have been saved by its use, when it was impossible to reach a physician. German Syrup is the best household remedy for coughs, colds, throat and lung trouble. It quickly relieves the hacking cough, loosens the phlegm, and brings sound and refreshing sleep. Twenty-five and seventy-five cent bottles. For sale by Woods & Orme.

Fined for Selling Liquor.

George McLean, of Carrsville, Ind., is charged with selling liquor in violation of the local option law, was tried here before Judge John H. Hensley Tuesday and was fined $500 for each charge. The cash New Democrat.

Dunn Case Settled.

The fourteen suits brought by the creditors of Gus Dunn, of Livingston county, who sold his story to W. H. Lay and Chas. Brown, against Dunn and the purchasers to recover $3,000, alleged debts against him, were compromised Tuesday by Dunn paying his creditors 10 cents on the dollar, and the latter releasing Chas. Brown, and W. H. Lay.

The creditors brought suit, and W. H. Lay and Chas. Brown, enjoined the prosecution, and asked the court to declare the sale an act of assignment. The creditors then made a proposition to compromise. J. R. Grogan represented the plaintiffs, and C. C. Grogan, of Paducah, the purchasers. Paducah News Democrat.
